

Afternoon Tea Etiquette with Miss Sue Flay

Afternoon Tea Hostess & Baking Tutor, Miss Sue Flay will help guests to understand the importance of manners at one of our most beloved mealtimes and most English traditions, Afternoon Tea, in a Cambridge City location or a venue of your choosing, we are very happy to travel, should this be required.

Practicing the art of conversation in a relaxed and informal atmosphere is a great way to learn some traditionally British manners, whilst having a lot of fun with your food!

Miss Sue Flay is the perfect hostess, being Cambridge “born & bred”, she grew up with her grandfather working as a local fireman before becoming a gardner at Kings College and her parents both working for well respected Cambridge-based companies, she is more than qualified to be your own personal Cambridge guide for a few hours, as she teaches you some manners & local history to boot.

Join Miss Sue Flay for Afternoon Tea etiquette with a luxurious afternoon tea in partnership with John Lewis Brasserie (by special agreement), to include a selection of delicate finger sandwiches, scones, cakes and sweet treats and, of course, copious amounts of top quality tea as we converse.

Practice your British manners & conversation or use it as an excuse to spend some time with your friends, family or colleagues...Or invite Miss Sue Flay to visit your own/preferred venue by special arrangement.

It's the perfect way to enjoy a celebration or to learn a little British history whilst visiting or living in our lovely City.

Perfect for baby showers, birthdays, a fun work lunch or even sophisticated hen parties!

Topics students will learn throughout our session will include:

History of afternoon tea

Napkin etiquette

Scones - Jam then cream? Or cream then jam?

How to drink tea

Milk then tea or tea then milk?

Pastries

Hosting manners

Good guest etiquette

Table manners - why they matter

Dressing for afternoon tea

Polite table talk - and putting it into practice

Excusing yourself

Plus much more besides!

This is the “ultimate finishing school for Afternoon Tea” and your manners will increase ten fold... we would hope!

Available to book weekdays from 1-3pm
& weekends 3-5pm
for a 2 hour session.

Miss Sue Flay is an Afternoon Tea baking teacher, blogger, columnist and etiquette enthusiast, having trained & co-hosted various etiquette events including “Dine Like Downton” with leading etiquette & manners expert, Mr William Hanson.

Pricing Structure

1 - 4 Students

First Student                      2 Hours = £40

Every Additional Student + £15 Per Student

Afternoon Tea at John Lewis Brasserie + £11.95 Per Student

OR

Champagne Tea at John Lewis Brasserie + £16.95 Per Student

5 - 8 Students

First Student                      2 Hours = £40

Every Additional Student + £10 Per Student

Afternoon Tea at John Lewis Brasserie + £11.95 Per Student

OR

Champagne Tea at John Lewis Brasserie + £16.95 Per Student

Larger groups & your own locations can be accommodated, however, please email to discuss in further detail.

To book, please either call 07852 227917
or email: Hello@MissSueFlay.com

Miss Sue Flay - www.MissSueFlay.com